Photograph, Film, and Videotape Consent Form – For Minors

Your child is participating in the Upper Great Lakes Stewardship Initiative (Upper GLSI) program through their school. The Upper GLSI is a coalition of community and school partners in Marquette, Alger, Delta, and Schoolcraft counties operated out of the Superior Watershed Partnership. In partnership with the Seaborg Math and Science Center, the Upper GLSI trains teachers in place-based service learning and provides funding to help K-12 educators create opportunities for young people to enact solutions to environmental challenges. Student service learning projects are tied directly to local and state academic standards.

Students and teachers often document their Upper Great Lakes Stewardship Initiative projects and activities through photographs, videos, and other media. Images and video are then used to share and promote Upper GLSI work through publications and materials including but not limited to: printed publications, the Upper GLSI website and newsletters, and social media sites. No student names will accompany content distributed to the public.
